The most stable version of the game is available both for Android and iOS devices. You can download this game for free from both the iOS store and from the Google Play Store and play for free. However, if you want to add more customization, you have to spend some cash. However, it's completely optional and you don't have to worry about it. Although the most exciting game had made its first release after the beta version, not all fans are happy. This is due to continued server bugs and issues. On the same day as the publication itself, thousands of players around the world had reported a shared server issue. While opening the game, they get attention. The download configuration failed. Make sure your device is connected to a network and then reboot the game. How to fix attention download configuration failed error in mobile task contact? It is clear from the error itself that your network has an issue. Call of Duty game is an online game and you have one Connect to the internet to play the game. Mobile data is good but good WiFi speed is recommended for a better game experience. So first you need to check your network connection. I hope you have a good connection and still have the same thing. That's what most gamers are ahead of now. Personally, I have the same problem. I was running a call from the mobile version task in my Tencent Buddy Emulator game and the first issue that I received was the game stuck on the loading screen. That is, I was able to download and install the game on tencent emulator. Then, while opening the game, the game got stuck on the loading screen. After trying to close and open the emulator a few more times I was able to update the game successfully. Here comes the next problem. When I successfully update the game and set it up on my computer, I'm getting a new error. The new issue is that the download configuration failed. Make sure your device is connected to a network and then reboot the error message game. I can't go any further. All of these errors are due to unexpected loads on the game's servers. I say this because the game had worked perfectly with the beta version and I haven't seen that because. So there will definitely be a much lower chance of such issues in the first public release. One and only reason for this is because of the massive rush. Millions of open games are accessing the game at the same time and servers are unable to touch those many requests. So we have to wait for developers to make changes to their servers or end up by peak time. Like all of you, I believe this issue will be resolved within 24 hours.
